Classification: LEAGUE-SECRET//SE

I received word of the approval for promotion following your excellent work in discovering the identity of the chief suspect from case CTG-2020-10-0001. This was well deserved.

We have sent out field teams to monitor the movements and computer usage of the suspect you identified as "Rayhaan Hodgson". We have gathered plentiful intelligence about his whereabouts and personal details about him, however I have been sent a file that was recovered recently that pertains to the case.

That file is your new task under this case. It is said to be some sort of iso file, and I need you to determine if you can recover any flags from this file. We suspect this may be connected to Rayhaan's recent adoption of a flag storage server hosted by Amazon Web Services, though we have no proof of this or IP address to go off of.

Please report to me immediately if you find anything of interest on this case, specifically about this file that I am attaching to this memo.

Congratulation on your promotion, it's well deserved.
